Question:

Describe two problems faced by the German government after the First World War.
(4 marks)

Answer:

The first problem faced by the German government after the First World War was the occupation of the Ruhr. The French army occupied the Ruhr when Germany could not pay their reparations, which was an important industrial area that was key for Germany's economy.

The second problem faced by the German government after the First World War was hyperinflation. This was extreme inflation caused by raw material shortages during workers' passive resistance in the Ruhr.

Feedback:

This answer would get 4/4 marks because it recognises two problems faced by the German government after WWII, and then describes both problems using additional information.
